

2020 Census Apportionment Results Delivered to the President

The U.S. Census Bureau completed data processing for the first 2020 Census results: state population counts used to apportion seats in the U.S. House of Representatives among the 50 states. The results include national and state population totals as well as congressional apportionment totals for each state.

2020 Census: Operational Quality Metrics

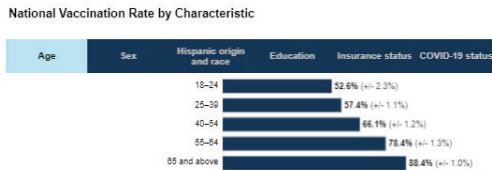

The U.S. Census Bureau recently released information about the quality of the 2020 Census from two methods:

- analyses that compare the first census results to other ways of measuring the population
- metrics that provide insight into the census operations
